Football Gossip of Passing Interest Bob Maxwell One of Best Big Men in Game.

By WILLIAM PHET.

Among the requests the Baseball Players' Praternity has asked of the National Commission is the following:

"If a player has been in the major laques for any portion of the playing season of ten different years, and if a lay time after the beginning of the tenthyear no team in such leagues desires his services, he shall receive his unconditional release, subject, however, to reset though the other which signs him. Robert W. Maxwell, of Swathmore, was probably the biggest good man who ever played football, and Dr. Carl S. Williams, of Perin, may shirt "Tiny" was as great a lineman as ever tied on cleated shoes.

Coble, of Swarthmore, was a huge follow; he weighted 25; Carter, who played guard at Michigan, was a mammoth, weighing 25c; "Germany" Schuitz was a winard, for a giant, and he tipped the beam at 30c; but "Tiny" climbed on the creaking scales and watched the little tilsk spin around to 172 and offtimes a little more. Maxwell was fished—or a state that it was nothing extraordinary for him to pull down quarter beyks in full fisht. He could buckle his girth into the line and something had to give way, and it rarely was Maxwell. There have been fat men who weighed a few pounds more, but that the Garnett sensity built gladding that the farm. the back field, especially because of nissing areat defensive playing in the Princeton game. With Bradles and Brickley to do to the back field should prove very strong. Hardwick will prove exceptionally strong at end, as he used to play the right end last year when Felton punted. He will also be sood at receiving forward passes as he handles a footbul very cleverly. Strong will be much more efficient at tankle than at end owing to his long experience. On the whole this lime-up looks much, it stronger than the original one because it keeps Mahan and Bradles both in the game at the same time, instead of alternative as before the races started, were from thought too. On the whole this lime-up looks much, it stronger than the original one because it keeps Mahan and Bradles both in the game at the same time, instead of alternative as before, and it also strongthens the end position by putting Hardwick there. The practice today was very light, consisting mercely of disminy tackling, kicking and catching punts, and a snappy signal drill.
